HALF A CENTURY OF CIGAR MAKING.

CELEBRATION OF THE GOLDEN ANNIVER SARY OF OTTO EISENLOHR & BROTHERS ENJOYED BY THEIR EMPLOYES.

The fiftieth anniversary of the firm of Otto Eisenlohr & Bros. of Philadelphia, well known as the manufacturers of Cinco cigars, was made the occasion of a series of appropriate observances, ending on Saturday night, all emphasizing the good will and mutual regard existing between the firm and its employes. The employes began the amenities of the anniversary by presenting to the brothers Eisenlohr a massive three-handled silver loving cup bearing the inscription, "From the Employes of Otto Eisenlohr & Brothers, with Congratulations upon the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Establishment of Their Business."

On the opposite side of the cup, in relief, an the arms of the Eisenlohr family, a shield with an ostrich and above it a plumed helmet. This cup was exhibited in the window of the firm's building, at 940 Market street, and was greatly admired as a work of art. On Friday and Saturday the firm gave ding to its 700 employes, each one of whom found beside his plate a souvenir of the "golden" anniversary. These souvenirs were gold coins of varof silk, lined with velvet. On the cover was stamped in gold the crest, a part of which forms the firm's trade-mark. Inside the covers the cases were inscribed "1850-1900. Souvenir. Golden Ar

The Philadelphia employes of the firm gathered on Friday in a large upper room in the building at 940 Market street, decorated for the occasion, and enjoyed the feast provided by the firm, the menu ending quite appropriately with their finest cigars, on the excellence of which the business of the house has grown to its present large proportions. At the gathering abundant evidence was given of the friendly feeling that exists between employes and employers, and reference was made to their many years of hearty co-operation without any of the friction or conflicts of interests so common in large business establishments.

On Saturday similar friendly gatherings tool place at the factories at East Greenville, Sellersville and Gerysville, Pa., the members of the firm devoting themselves each to one of the three fac-

The firm of Otto Elsenlohr & Brothers was founded by William Eisenlohr. He started alone in 1850, without a single employe, in the buildin at 137 South 10th street. In 1873, the business being firmly established, William Eisenlohr enter ed the leaf tobacco trade and transferred the eigar business to his son, Otto, who later associated with himself in partnership his brothers, Louis H Eisenlohr and Charles J. Eisenlohr. The uninter rupted prosperity enjoyed by the house is attrib uted by the firm in large part to the hearty co-operation of its men in the factory, the sales room, the office and "on the road," a co-operation which, in the words of a member of the firm, has

ON THE CONVENTION PLAN

THE GRIDIRON CLUB'S PROGRAM AT ITS APRIL DINNER.

Display of Placards, Elaborate Decorations and Other Features-Can-The April dinner of the Gridiron Club, at the Arlington Hotel last Saturday night, was made the occasion of an imitation of a national political convention, and the event was one of the most interesting of the many entertainments given by this famous organization.

The idea of a convention was carried out in the elaborate decorations. The paneled oak ceiling and the mirrored walls of the bunting, while at intervals along the tables and coats-of-arms of the states. The re-semblance to a convention hall was complete. The floral display was also very fine. There was a delicious fragrance of spring blossoms in the room, as well as a glory of color to delight the eye. Amid so much bunting and the floral effects a few plainly printed placards, bearing more of less flippant but appropriate legends, were conspicuous-"Admiral Dewey's headquarters, Parlor 1313," "Hanna, Quay and Reform," and the like.

The menu souvenirs were fac similes of convention tickets, being handsome and unique, and were brought in by two "south-ern delegates," who were alleged to have been trying to sell them on the outside.

All Prearranged.

There was a genuine satire in the state-ment by President West that all details, such as the selection of temporary and permanent officers, appointments of committees, etc., had been arranged before-

"Then what kind of a convention is this?" asked a member of the club. "A convention on the Philadelphia plan."

was the reply. "The delegates have nothing to do but furnish the enthusiasm." This seemed, however, to be perfectly satisfactory, for there appeared at this juncture the Gridiron Marching Club, carying red, white and blue campaign umrying red, white and blue campaign umbrellas and wearing linen dusters. After repeating, like a college yell, the fact that they were friends of McKinley, the club marched out and immediately reappeared, shouting with equal enthusiasm for Bryan. The "marching club" was preceded by two musicians, playing a drum and a fife, in the true campaign style.

The latest member of the club, Henry G. Kemp of the Baitimore Sun, was introduced as the club's hero, and entered wearing an admiral's uniform. After he had been presented with a wreath, a sword and other triffes, he mounted a platform, returned his thanks, accepted the nomination and declared himself the people's candidate. At that moment his platform collapsed and the choir sang, with lugubrious effect, "There's a Hole in the Bottom of the Sea."

There was a platform, of course. It was jumble of nonsensical phrases, patterned fifer the usual extravagant declarations of after the usual extravagant declarations of political conventions, but it was not adopted, a substitute being adopted in the shape of a gridiron platform made of little planks. Gov. Roosevelt was impersonated as a rough rider, with ludicrous success. The specches were excellent, one of the novelties about them being the nomination of themselves by some of the principal speakers.

Among the guests who spoke were ex-Among the guests who spoke were ex-Senator Gorman, Senators Allison, Depew, Carter, Hanna, Representatives Allen, Dalzell and others.

The club did not nominate any one, but referred the selection of candidates to a committee consisting of Senator Hanna, Senator Piatt, Senator Jones and ex-Senator Gorman, to report at the dinner of the club in December next.

During the evening Director of the Census Merriam was made to undergo a civil service examination to prove his fitness for the vice presidency.

William Sewall's Conduct While Serving in a Trial.

A rule was issued this morning against William Sewall, colored, who served during the month ending today as a juror in Crimcause the second day of May why he should not be proceeded against for contempt of court. Papers in connection with the same matter were prepared last week, but for some reason were not brought before the court. It is charged by the United States attorney that, while sitting as a juror in the case of William Turner and others, in-the case of William Turner and others, indicted for rape, Sewall, in disregard of the dignity of the court, and of the decorum and decency which should characterize the administration of justice, said to another juror, while a policeman was testifying that "He would not believe those on oath," referring to the policemen who appeared in the case.

Also that Sewall, while the closing argument in behalf of the United States was being made by Alexander H. Semmes, assistant United States attorney, remarked that what Semmes was saying was "all rot," this last remark being made in a tone of voice loud enough to be heard, and which was heard by a number of persons in the court room.

The rule is accompanied by affidavits of Charles W. Bohannon, one of the jurors who sat in the case in question; Daniel M. Goodacre, crier of the court; Edmund K. It will be remembered that the jury, of which Sewall was a member, after being in conference all night, reported that it was unable to agree, and was discharged. The defendants in the case, all colored, were accused of committing a criminal assault on Dora Linkins, white.

SUNDAY WAS OUIET!

RESORTS IN MONTGOMERY COUNTY DECIDE TO REFORM.

Peaceful Day at Cabin John - County Officials Were on the Alert.

Cabin John bridge has been regenerated and purged of its lawlessness. How long it will remain purified is not known, but if the statements of the proprietors of the well-known resort across "the biggest single span in the world" are to be refled upon, the change is for all time. As they told a reporter of The Star yesterday, "it is our intention to make this place a arstclass road house, where the wives and chilaren of gentlemen can come with perfect security. We enjoyed that reputation once, and mean to deserve it again. Our eyes have been opened, and with the assurances we have received from the authorities, our their co-operation. There will be no more drinking on Sunday, and the slot machines drinking on Sunday, and the slot machines have been sent away. We have no complaint to make of The Star. It simply did its duty, and made us realize ours."

Yesterday at Cabin John bridge was in marked contrast to the previous Sabbath. Thousands made the trip expecting to obtain liquid refreshment and try their luck with the machine gambling devices, but were sadly disappointed. "Everything was tight," to use a New York expression. The bar rooms were closed. It was not small bar rooms were closed. It was not small bluff, for the reporter got an inside bluff, for the reporter got an inside glimpse, and they were entirely deserted. And the gambling machines had all disappeared. The hotel was quiet and orderly. On the ample porches the reporter noted several well-known residents of Washington, with their wives and children, cnyoying the beautiful view of the river. There were many diners about the place, and the tough element was conspicuously absent. It did not take the word long to go down the line, and after noon, when the sports began to drive, they did not tarry at Cabin John bridge, but kept on to the Great Falis. The beautiful Conduit road, however, was almost entirely free from that class of objectionables which has in the past made it positively dangerous. It is understood Jectionables which has in the past made it positively dangerous. It is understood Chief of Police Sylvester will be asked by the Maryland authorities to help improve the morals of Montgomery county by keeping at home the demi-monde of the city. A word from the police, it is said, will accomplish this.

Authorities on Guard. The Maryland authorities were out in force yesterday. Early in the morning Sheriff Arthur Williams started from Washington in a carriage, and personally visited every place along the Conduit road and vi-cinity where liquor was sold. Each propriecinity where liquor was sold. Each proprietor was seen and cautiened in no uncertain language, and when the sheriff left they realized, as one of them tersely put it. "The booze business out here is dead." At Cabin John bridge the sheriff met State's Attorney H. Morris Taibott. The Maryland officials went through the hotel and over the grounds. All was quiet and respectable. Perhaps they were expected. Be that as it may, the proprietors were called before them, and heard, perhaps for the first time, what the law expected and what the state demanded. They explained that the time had come for a new order of things, and if the law was violated they need expect no quarter. Golden promises were made, and the officials were apparently severely in earnest. To a reporter of The Star they said:

"This lawlessness in Montements."

earnest. To a reporter of The Star they said:

"This lawlessness in Montgomery county has got to stop. The continued breaking of the law will be unrelentlessly prosecuted. Our own people must be protected from this indiscriminate dumping of objectionable characters into our county on the Sabbath. This is no grand stand play. We love peace and order here in Maryland as much as you do in Washington, and we are going to have it if we are forced to arrest every objectionable person who comes into our state. It has recently come to our ears that these violators of the law bribe us to keep away from them. There is no use paying any attention to such a charge. Both of us are too well known in the state to even take the trouble to deny it. Maryland is in earnest, and, speaking for the state, we desire to thank The Star for its good fight in the interest of law and order."

Were Diappointed.

Were Disappointed

It was amusing in the early part of the day to watch the expressions of the peo-ple who had made the journey from the city to take a cool drink. By twos and threes they came, and made straightway for the bar. "Closed." The sign was stagfor the bar. "Closed." The sign was staggering. "It's a bluff; come around to the other bar." "Closed." That sign again, horrors what was the open sesame, where the right place? "Come on down in the rathskeller." "Closed." Two knocks on the door. No answer. Three. No, that was not the right one. A soft whistle. It looked black indeed. Then they hunted up Leo, the manager. Surely he would fix things for them. "Gentlemen, the bars are closed. You cannot get a drink here under any circumstances."
"Aw, come off. We're all right. We ain't no reporters."
"Makes no difference, gentlemen, no drinks are served here on Sunday."
They went away crestfallen and thirsty and tried another place, not a mile away, with indifferent success. Later in the day the sheriff closed this, and the thirst exchange was moved to Great Falls. Word the sheriff closed this, and the thirst exchange was moved to Great Falls. Word was brought to the sheriff that everything was wide open there, and he concluded he would like to visit the falls.

"Some ladies who do not enjoy the best reputations in the world visited Cabin John bridge during the day, and went away complaining of discrimination. They were politely, but firmly turned back.

All in all last Sunday in Montgomery county was peaceful and orderly. There were no murders, no fights and few drunken men.

FOR WELL PEOPLE.

AN EASY WAY TO KEEP WELL AN EAST WAT TO KEEP WELL.
It is easy to keep well if we would only observe each day a few simple rules of health.
The all-important thing is to keep the stomach right, and to do this it is not necessary to diet or to follow a set rule or bill of fare. Such pampering simply makes a capricious appetite and a feeling that certain favorite articles of food must be avoided.

Prof. Wiechold gives pretty good advice on this subject. He says: "I sm 68 years old and have never had a serious illness, and at the same time my life has been largely an indoor one, but I early discovered that the way to keep healthy was to keep a healthy stomach, not by eating bran crackers or dieting of any sort; on the contrary, I always eat what my appetite craves. But for the past eight years I have made it a daily practice to ways eat what my appetite craves. But for the past eight years I have made it a daily practice to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal, and I attribute my tobust health for a man of my age to the regular daily use of Stuart's Tablets.

"My physician first advised me to use them, because he said they were perfectly harmless and were not a secret patent medicine, but contained only the natural digestives, peptones and diastase, and after using them a few weeks I have never cased to thank him for his advice.

"I honestly believe the habit of taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals is the real health habit, because their use brings health to the sick and alling and preserves health to the well and

and annual strong."

Men and women past fifty years of age need a safe digestive after meals to insure a perfect digestion and to ward off disease, and the safest, best known and most widely used is Stuart's Dyn-pepsia Tablets.

They are found in every well-regulated household from Maine to California, and in Great Britain and Australia are rapidly pushing their way into pepular favor.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, full-sized packages at 50 cents, and for a weak stomach a fifty-cent package will often do fifty dollars' worth of good.

"Yes," the court replied.

It is understood that an appeal to the Court of Appeals will be taken in the case of Landon. The latter was convicted of killing Henry Bradley, colored by stabbing him with a knife December 12 last. Vale murdered Alexander Jackson by shooting him January 14 last. Stump's crime was the fatal shooting of James Lee, colored, December 12 last.
